Deliverable Features:

- Add
  - The whole point of a database is to add things to it, our database better have support for adding by the time we deliver it
- Delete
  - It would be nice to be able to delete records that are no longer used
- Search
  - Apart from adding, the second most important thing is being able to search through these records and return items
- Edit
  - Errors get made, it would be nice to be able to correct them within the app

Stretch Features:

- Photo Support
  - The theatre department is going to need photo support eventually. The sooner we add it the better.
- Filter Function
  - Returning one item is fine and dandy, but our client might need to select a variety of items so it'd be nice to be able to have a filter feature that shows images in addition to information about the item. If they are doing a play with a medieval type feel to it, they may wish to see clothing that is medieval.
- Login Feature
  - Editing, adding, and deleting is nice, but should every user have access to that? What happens if someone starts adding and deleting things without knowing what they're doing? Login would also help with actor profiles
- Actor Profiles
  - This is the feature that would be the coolest. If we can create actor profiles that can have clothing assigned to them, and can then compile a list to be printed of where everything is, it might make things easier on the theatre department. In addition to that, actor profiles can help with the next stretch feature, checking in and out.
- Check in/Check out
  - Automatic check in and out would be nifty, especially if it worked with actor profiles. This might even work if they want to loan something out to another school, or to individuals. It could handle costs, due dates, and other agreements.
- A once a year check to see if any items haven't been used in x amount of years.
  - The theatre department has a lot of items, there are undoubtedly items that aren't used very frequently, and there might even be some that haven't been used for years. This feature could help the theatre department think about things to keep around and things to get rid of.